FREW & CAMPBELL,

THURNDAY, MARCH 6, 1879.

Semion of the Railroad Committee Yes-terday. The Special Joint Committee of the two houses of the legislature, raised to confer with the Baltimore & Ohio Ralfroad officials in regard to the dead-lock between the Company and the legislature, met at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and were in session all day and evening. Vice President Keyser was before them several hours, and was subjected to a long course of iterregation upon the numerous complaints and grievances and difficulties ap pertaining to the whole subject matter. Several prominent shippers from West Virginia and Maryland were also before the Committee, among them Mr. Strouss of the Irondale Mr. De Ford, of the Morgan and Mineral county tanneries, Mr. Mayer, the largest coal shipper at Clarksburg, and various other parties, all of whom testified that unless the present situation was relieved by some agency or other-either the State or the railroad company-their respective operations would be entirely suspended and dried up. For instance, Mr. Strouss testified that it cost him $12 per ton to make iron at Irondale, $1.53 per ton to ship it to Wheeling (where he got $15 for it) leaving him at the special rates allowed him prior to March 1st, $1 47 per ton for profit. Now, by the with drawal of all special rates, the freight would be $4 10, which would be $1 10 of a loss on every ton shipped. He had invested $70,000 on the strength of the arrangements entered into beforehand with the railroad company, and was employing about 300 men in his ore, coal and furnace operations, all of whom would be turned idle upon society. The same thing would happen at Gladesville and Ironton. These three furnaces employed altogether about 600 men, and were just getting on their feet, but all would be blown out and

The leather and tanning interest was in which county, as it seems, more money is paid out by this interest than all others combined. Those who represented it testified that it would be entirely ruined if the special rates were withdrawn. The same testimony was offered by a promi nent coal shipper at Fairmont. Indeed, there was no variance whatever in the character of the experience submitted to the committee by shippers. The ground gone over in Mr. Keyser's examination and answers is already familiar to our readers, but inasmuch as the topic is before the legislature in a somewhat new light, we give his speech before the committee. Most of the interrogation was done by Col. Johnson, Gov. Jacob and Mr. Post. Post is the most refreshingly direct interceptor, we very listened. ingly direct interrogator we ever listened sentatives. to. He interrupted a large shipper in the course of a warm little speech to inquire if he did not come to Wheeling on a pass. "No, sir," said the pass from the company-never asked for one and never wanted one. I prefer to be under no obligations to the company.' This direct and pointed answer rather took the irrepressible Post back a little for an instant, inasmuch as he had rushed to the combat as if sure of capturing paid emissary. He missed it that time. Col. Johnson and the Vice President exchanged a good many good natured but pretty sharp cross-fires. It came to a point, at one stage of the proceedings, where the latter observed that he would be willing to hazard five thousand dollars to five cents that the Colone had not quoted Albert Fink's testimony before the Railroad Committee of Congress correctly. The book was produced, testimony read, and the Vice-President claimed the Colonel's five The quotation was somewhat technical and involved, and the legislative committee seemed willing to consider the proper rendition of Fink as a stand off

Gov. Jacob put the following direct

Question—"Are we to understand that if there is no legislative interference with the operations of the road under this new tariff, and the company is permitted to make special rates to shippers engaged in the mining and lumber business, and all the various interests of the State, that these special rates are to be given without discrimination to shippers of all classes?"

Answer—"That is my understanding."

Question—"Are we to understanding."

by us, and not contemplated by the Com-pany, will the Company hold itself in readiness to correct such hardship?"

Answer—Yes, sir. Of course I do not assume that the hard-hip is to be a question solely to be judged by the shipper himself?

Question—Suppose your classification of freight in this new tariff should be such as to seriously injure a shipper who is a citizen of this State, who is in competition with citizens of another State, would he be protected under your classification?

Answer—We would endeavor to make such a rate as to enable the shipper to get his commodity to market on terms fair and equitable as compared with shippers in other States.

The two Senators from the Marshall district were before the committee. Sena-district were before the committee.

district were before the committee. Senator Lowe said that he had of late beer twice among his constituents in Marshall, Wetzel and Marion counties, and that their voice was for compromise. They thought that if the Legislature and the company were disposed to do what was mutually fair, a just compromise could be arrived at. Senator Butler, of Jefferson county, was also before the committee, and testified that one of the grievances of his constituents was the matter of discriminations by the railroad company between grain shippers, giving more rebate to large than to small shippers.

Per contra, Mr. Mayer, the Clarksburg coal shipper, said that although he was the largest shipper of coal on this side of the mountains, yet he could get no better terms than smaller shippers.

Altogether, the examinations and discussions before the committee yesterday were of a very interesting and instructive character. It is thought to be probable that a majority of the committee will agree upon a compromise with the railroad com-pany. What, however, the compromise will be is not yet entirely clear.

If we who are doing business on the line If we who are doing business on the line of this road, cannot get rates to New York and Chicago less than any road would be willing to do local work for, then we must shut down and quit business. Railroads have become a necessity and should be a blessing to all.

Every instance—that has come to my knowledge—of unjust discrimination has been promptly remedied when fully shown up; in fact I think the railroad company has, to some extent, realized that company has, to some extent, realized that it will not do to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, and have in fact encouraged the people of West Virginia to enter-prise and the building up of towns all along the line. I hope the Legislature will confer with the authorities of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company and try at least to arrive at a just and fair solution.
